A precautionary suspension is not in any way a determination of guilt, neither is it a form of punishment. The Council requests that stakeholders refrain from casting aspersions and allow the investigation process to unfold in accordance with the relevant legislation and policies.

This precautionary suspension will enable the stabilising processes that have been initiated to be concluded without any hindrance or interference.

The SACPCMP acknowledges the constructive engagement, professionalism, and dedication shown by all Council Members throughout this period. The leadership transition has been approached with a strong sense of collective responsibility, with the Council members working collaboratively with the new appointees to place the best interests of the organisation, its Registered Persons, and the broader Built Environment at the forefront of all decisions. It is, in fact, with this in mind that the measures were taken, thus, ensuring that the integrity of the professions and the SACPCMP itself.

The SACPCMP wishes to reiterate to all stakeholders that this transition does not affect the day-to-day operations of the organisation. The work of Council Members, Management, and Staff continues uninterrupted, and the SACPCMP remains committed to transparency, accountability, and professional excellence.

The SACPCMP Council Members wish the appointees' full success in their interim roles and offer their complete support as a Board. The SACPCMP thanks all stakeholders for their continued support and engagement and look forward to working together to further strengthen the professions and the organisation.

Sincerely,

The South African Council for the Project and Construction Management Professions (SACPCMP)
